19 PLAINTIFF'S OPPOSITION TO 20 DEFENDANT THE BEST SERVICE
21 CO.'SMOTION TO DISMISS COMPLAINT 22 PURSUANT TO RULE 12(b)(6) OF THE 23 FEDERAL RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

24 Date: September 1, 2016
25 Time: 9:00 am
26 Room: 5, 4th Floor

29
30 Jefferson Robinson (hereinafter "Plaintiff"), by and through her attorney's of record, 31 Sagaria Law, P.C. hereby submits his opposition to The Best Service Co.'s (hereinafter 32 "Defendant") motion to dismiss Plaintiff's complaint under rule 12(b)(6) of the Federal Rules of 33 Civil Procedure.

34 INTRODUCTION

35 Plaintiff filed a complaint against the above captioned defendant on June 16, 2016. In his 36 complaint, Plaintiff alleged that the named defendants violated both the Fair Credit Reporting 37 Act (hereinafter "FCRA") and the California Consumer Credit Reporting Agencies Act 38 (hereinafter "CCRA").

The substance of Plaintiff's claims arose due to a review of his credit report. Plaintiff noticed that the defendants in this action were not correctly updating the reporting on his credit report after the confirmation of his chapter 13 plan of financial reorganization. Plaintiff filed for chapter 13 bankruptcy protection on March 31, 2014. His chapter 13 reorganization plan was confirmed on November 10, 2014.

Defendant moves to dismiss Plaintiff's complaint on the grounds that it does not state a claim upon which relief can be granted under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure (hereinafter "FRCP") 12(b)(6). Defendant's motion and analysis does not properly analyze the complaint and relevant supporting case law and both misstates and misinterprets the relevant case law regarding the disputed matter. Defendant's motion should be denied, or alternatively, Plaintiff should be allowed to file an amended complaint.

GENERAL BACKGROUND

Plaintiff filed for chapter 13 bankruptcy protection on March 31, 2014. A part of Plaintiff's chapter 13 filing included listing all creditors in order for notice to be provided to his creditors and how those creditors' claims were to be treated under the terms of his financial reorganization. Plaintiff's chapter 13 plan was subsequently confirmed on November 10, 2014. Plaintiff's plan proposed to repay approximately 0.00% of his unsecured creditors. No creditors sought to object to the confirmation of the plan or exclude a particular debt from the plan's treatment, thereby binding her creditors to the terms of the plan. Defendant was listed as a creditor in Plaintiff's petition.

Plaintiff pulled a tri-merge credit report from Equifax on or about July 15, 2015. Plaintiff noticed several entries on his credit report that seemed inaccurate given the confirmation of his chapter 13 repayment plan and the treatment of his creditors under the terms of the plan.

In response to the review of his credit report, Plaintiff sent dispute letters to the three credit bureaus, Experian, Equifax, and Trans Union, on or about February 11, 2016, requesting that the inaccuracies and misleading information be corrected. Plaintiff identified the information he perceived as problematic on his credit reports and included that information in the dispute letters that were sent. Plaintiff received a reinvestigation report indicating what attempts had been made to correct the perceived inaccuracies. Plaintiff pulled a second tri-merge credit report and noticed that Defendant was still reporting his account as in collections and having no mention of his bankruptcy filing. Plaintiff filed this instant lawsuit on April 21, 2016.

ARGUMENT

1 Defendants' motion to dismiss Plaintiff's Complaint should be denied for two reasons.
 2 First, the FCRA and CCCRAA prohibit credit furnishers from reporting inaccurate and 3 incomplete information. In this case, Plaintiff included a debt owed to Defendants in his 4 bankruptcy petition. Plaintiff's chapter 13 was then approved and a confirmation order entered 5 absolving Plaintiff from any legal requirement to pay on the debts separate from the treatment 6 under the terms of the chapter 13 plan. As a result of the reporting, Plaintiff submitted written 7 notice to the credit reporting agencies ("CRA's") Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion disputing 8 the accuracy of the past due balances owed, collections, and charge off status Defendants 9 reported on the credit account included in the chapter 13 bankruptcy. In response, Defendant 10 continued to report the account as in collections and failed to make any reference to Plaintiff's 11 chapter 13 filing.

12 Second, the complaint pleads sufficient facts to support the remaining elements of 13 Plaintiff's FCRA and CCCRAA claims. Plaintiff, therefore, respectfully requests that this Court 14 deny Defendant's motion in its entirety. If the court dismisses the complaint, the court must then 15 decide whether to grant to leave to amend. Lopez v. Smith, 203 F.3d 1122, 1127 (9th Cir. 2000).
 16 Leave to amend should be granted "unless the court determines that the pleading could not 17 possibly be cured by an amendment." Id. at 1127.

18 A. Plaintiff Meets the Standard Under F.R.C.P. 12(b)(6)

19 Under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6) the court must dismiss a complaint if it 20 fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted. A complaint must give faire notice of 21 the claim being asserted and the grounds upon which it rests. Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 22 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007). In addition to providing fair notice, the plaintiff must allege 23 "enough facts to state a claim to relief." Id. At 570. Allegations amounting to a mere 24 possibility the defendant has acted unlawfully fall short of the pleading standards required by 25 Rule 12(b)(6). Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 129 S. Ct 1937, 1949 (2009). Nor are "labels and 26 conclusions" or a "formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action" sufficient to 27 survive a motion to dismiss. Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555. Finally, the allegations must be 28 plausible: the plaintiff must allege facts that "raise a right to relief above the speculative level."

Id.

1           Although the court, in deciding whether the plaintiff has stated a claim, must take the 2 plaintiff's allegations as true and draw all reasonable inferences in the plaintiff's favor, the court 3 is not required to accept "merely conclusory" allegations, "unwarranted deductions of fact, or 4 unreasonable inferences" as true. St. Claire v. Gilead Sciences, Inc., 536 F. 3d 1049, 1055 (9th Cir. 2008); see also Iqbal, 129 S. Ct. at 1949-5.

5           i. Plaintiff First Cause of Action Sufficiently States a Claim for a Violation 6 of the Fair Credit Reporting Act Based on Defendant's Unreasonable 7 Investigation and Continued Inaccurate Reporting to Experian, Equifax, and TransUnion

8           Congress enacted the FCRA in 1970 to "ensure fair and accurate credit reporting to the 9 maximum extent possible to protect the creditworthiness and reputation of every consumer . . . ." See 15 U.S.C. § 1681(b). To guarantee that credit reports are accurate, the FCRA imposes 10 certain duties on the sources that provide credit information to CRA's, called "furnishers" in the 11 statute.<sup>1</sup> Gorman v. Wolpoff & Abramson LLP., 584 F.3d 1147, 1153 (9th Cir. 2009).

12           A furnisher must refrain from reporting information that it knows or has reasonable 13 cause to believe is inaccurate. 15 U.S.C. § 1681s-2(a)(1). Moreover, when a furnisher receives 14 notice of a consumer dispute from a CRA concerning the accuracy of any credit item, the 15 furnisher must reasonably investigate the dispute and, if necessary, correct any past misreporting.
 16 15 U.S.C. § 1681s-2(b)(1)(A)-(E). Although § 1681s-2(a) is not privately enforceable, a 17 furnisher's failure to comply with its statutory duties under § 1681s-2(b) renders it liable to the 18 consumer for damages. Drew v. Equifax Info. Servs., LLC., 690 F.3d 1110, 1119 (9th Cir. 2012).

19           a. The FCRA Prohibits Reporting Inaccurate or Misleading Information on 20 an Account Included in a Bankruptcy Petition

21           The FCRA's prohibition against inaccurate reporting extends to information that is 22 technically inaccurate or "materially misleading." Gorman, 584 F.3d at 1163. Information is 23 technically inaccurate if the inaccuracy appears "on its face." Drew, 690 F.3d at 1108.
 24 Likewise, information is materially misleading if "it can be expected to adversely affect credit 25 decisions." Gorman, 584 F.3d at 1163 ("Reports . . . that mislead their readers are neither 26 maximally accurate nor fair to the consumer."). As described in greater detail below, the 27 FCRA's prohibition extends to the reporting of derogatory credit information on an account

28           <sup>1</sup> Consumer reporting agencies include Experian Information Solutions, Inc. Trans Union, LLC., and Equifax 29 Information Services, LLC. Mouton v. AmeriCredit Fin. Servs., NO. C 04-02485 JW, 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 32185, at *3 fn. 3 (N.D. Cal. June 28, 2005).

1 included in bankruptcy. The FCRA requires that furnisher's reports to consumer reporting 2 agencies be complete, as well as accurate. Montgomery v. Wells Fargo (3:12-cv-03895-TEH) *7.

i. By Defendant Reporting A Past-Due Balance It Implies That Plaintiff Is Not Performing Under Her Chapter 13
Plan

5 Wang v. Asset Acceptance LLC is instructive. In Wang, Plaintiff alleged that Defendant 6 violated § 1681s-2(b) by re-reporting overdue payments to CRA's while also failing to report
 7 that Plaintiff disputed the account information. No. C 09-04797 SI, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 8 91946, at *15 (N.D. Cal. July 27, 2010). The Wang court held that Plaintiff's allegation 9 plausibly stated a separate FCRA claim. Id. at *15.

10 Similarly here, Plaintiff alleges Defendants re-reported Plaintiffs account as in collections 11 and without making reference to the chapter 13 filing. As in Wang, Defendant's subsequent 12 failure to comply with its duty under § 1681s-2(a)(3) is actionable. One reviewing the report 13 could reasonable conclude that Defendant's account is not subject to the terms of Plaintiff's 14 confirmed chapter 13 plan and that separate collection activity can occur. In other words, it 15 appears, based on Defendant's reporting, that Plaintiff still owes Defendant money because the 16 account is being reported as in collections rather than included in bankruptcy. That inference is 17 entirely reasonable given the standard that is applied to FRCP 12(b)(6) motions. St. Claire, 536 18 F. 3d at 1055 (9th Cir. 2008).

19 Further, Defendants' reporting ignores the plain language of 11 U.S.C. § 1327, which 20 states, in relevant part, the following regarding the effect of a chapter 13 plan confirmation:

21 (a) The provisions of a confirmed plan bind the debtor and each creditor, 22 whether or not the claim of such creditor is provided for by the plan, 23 and whether or not such creditor has objected to, has accepted, or has 24 rejected the plan.
 25 (b) ...

26 11 U.S.C. §1327. Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1327(a), the provisions of a confirmed Chapter 13 27 plan bind the debtor and each creditor which has notice of the plan. In re Burnett, 646 F. 3d 575, 28 581 (8th Cir. 2011)<sup>2</sup>. The United States Supreme Court, in United Student Aid Funds, Inc. v.
Espinosa, held that creditors who receive notice of a chapter 13 plan are bound by the terms if

27
 28 <sup>2</sup> / Defendant was listed as an unsecured creditor in Plaintiff's chapter 13 bankruptcy petition and received notice from the U.S. Bankruptcy Court of the filing, a copy of the proposed plan and the treatment of all unsecured creditors, and a copy of the proof of claim form.

1 confirmed. 130 S. Ct. 1367, 1380 (2010). The Chapter 13 Trustee in Plaintiff's case, who is 2 charged with disbursing on all claims filed in Plaintiff's bankruptcy, has disbursed $0.00 to 3 Defendant pursuant to U.S. Bankruptcy Court Order. .

4 Plaintiff is specifically alleging that despite the treatment under the terms of the 5 confirmed chapter 13 plan, Defendant continued to report Plaintiff's account as in collections.
 6 Defendant appears to be confused about the various types of bankruptcy filings that are afforded 7 to individuals and is attempting to mislead this Court by implying that findings specific to 8 chapter 7 cases, which involve no repayment arrangement, are wholly applicable to those 9 proceedings under chapter 13.

10 Defendant's reliance on Mortimer v. JP Morgan Chase Bank, N.A. No. C12-1936 CW, 11 2012 WL 3155563 is entirely misplaced and not applicable to the facts alleged in the instant 12 complaint. Mortimer dealt specifically with a creditor's ability to report late payment post-13 chapter 7 filing but pre-chapter 7 discharge. Mortimer at 7. Mortimer is easily distinguished on 14 several grounds, the most obvious being that the facts of the instant case deal with allegations 15 that Defendant reported the account in question as being past due with a balance owed, not that 16 Defendant was reporting late payments post-filing but pre-discharge. Further, the instant case 17 deals with an underlying chapter 13 filing and not a chapter 7 discharge. Nowhere in Plaintiff's 18 complaint are there any allegations that mirror those that were at issue in Mortimer and as such 19 any reference or reliance on Mortimer should be disregarded as not being applicable to the 20 present issue<sup>3</sup>.

21 Gorman is also helpful in supporting Plaintiff's position that Defendant's reporting was 22 incomplete because it failed to note that Plaintiff's account was included in a bankruptcy 23 proceeding. Defendant's reporting makes no mention of a chapter 13 bankruptcy filing on the 24 credit report. Gorman, 584 F. 3d at 1163. Plaintiff is not requesting that Defendant report the 25 debt to the CRAs as discharged. Rather Plaintiff is simply requesting that Defendant follow its 26 obligations under the FCRA and report accurate information that is not misleading.

27 <sup>3</sup> / Defendant's reliance on Mortimer ignores the findings of various courts in Grantham v. Bank of America, N.A.
 28 (3:12-cv-1960) and Montgomery v. Wells Fargo Bank, Nat'l Ass'n 2012 U.S. Dist. Lexis 162912; and Venugopal v.
Digital Fed. Credit Union (N.D. Cal. Mar. 27 2013, 5:12-CV-06067-EJD) 2013 U.S. Dist. Lexis 43829).
Venugopal is particularly instructive in that the court found that a failure to accurately report "could have been misleading so as to materially alter the understanding of the debt" because of a suggestion that the account was still collectible. Venugopal at 9. Although Plaintiff does agree that there is a stark difference between a chapter 7 and chapter 13, the analysis is comparable – in the instant case Defendant maintains that Plaintiff is behind on her payments, which seem to indicate that Plaintiff is not making payments pursuant to the terms of her chapter 13 plan.

1 Plaintiff's allegations against Defendant inform Defendant that the reporting, as it 2 currently stands, is misleading due to the notations made on Plaintiff's credit report. Plaintiff is 3 taking specific issue with the collection status of the account, as that implies that the account is 4 still subject to collection rather than subject to the terms contained in the chapter 13 repayment
 5 plan. A similar issue was decided in Grantham v. Bank of America, N.A. (3:12-cv-1960-MEJ) 6 where the court denied a motion for judgment on the pleadings, finding that reporting an overdue payment in addition to a zero balance is misleading.

7       ii.     Plaintiff's Second Cause of Action Adequately States a Claim for a 8                 Violation of California Consumer Credit Reporting Agencies Act § 9                 1785.25(a)

10      The CCCRA prohibits furnishers from reporting incomplete or inaccurate information to 11 a credit reporting agency if the party knows or has reason to know that the information is 12 inaccurate. Cal. Civ. Code § 1785.25(a). In a marked departure from the FCRA, private parties 13 may enforce violations of § 1785.25(a). Cal. Civ. Code §1785.31; Gorman, 584 F.3d at 1171.
 14 To succeed, Plaintiff need only allege that Defendant furnished inaccurate information with 15 either knowledge of the inaccuracy or at least reason to know that the information was 16 inaccurate. Browndorf v. TD Bank, N.A., No. SACV12-0223 DOC(JPRx), 2012 U.S. Dist.
 17 LEXIS 99237, at *16 (C.D. Cal. July 17, 2012). Section 1785.25 requires that the provision of a 18 credit report must be as accurate as possible. Cisneros v. U.D. Registry, Inc. 39 Cal. App. 4th 19 548, 579 (1995).

20      A similar situation was ruled upon in Venugopal v. Digital Federal Credit Union, 12-CV-21 06067, (N.D.C.A. 2013). In that case, District Judge Davila found that reporting balances owed 22 after a bankruptcy filing could be misleading, and therefore, a cause of action was available 23 under the CCCRA. Further, in Montgomery, the court indicated that “[b]ecause the CCRAA's 24 requirements of completeness and accuracy mirror those found in the FCRA, judicial 25 interpretations of the federal provisions are ‘persuasive authority and entitled to substantial 26 weight when interpreting California provisions.’” Carvalho v. Equifax Info. Servs., LLC, 629 27 F.3d 876, 889 (9th Cir. 2010).

28                 CONCLUSION

29      Based on the foregoing, Plaintiff respectfully requests that this court deny Defendant's 30 motion to dismiss under F.R.C.P. 12(b)(6) on the grounds that the complaint is specific as to 31 which allegations and causes of action apply to Defendant and because the complaint states

1 claims upon which relief can be granted. Alternatively, if the court grants Defendant's motion to 2 dismiss, Plaintiff requests that the dismissal be without prejudice and that Plaintiff is allowed 3 leave to file an amended complaint.
